Traffic flow. Officers to watch taxi stands

Lawmen will keep watch over lads and lassies at four taxi stands stationed around the Calgary Stampede grounds this year and may be called on to help unsnarl traffic at two particularly plugged intersections as well.

Marc Halat, the city's chief livery officer, said he's enlisted some of his team members and some from by-law enforcement to watch the stands for the first time, a move aimed at maintaining traffic flow and fairness for customers and cabbies alike.

"We want to get the taxis in, get them out as effectively and efficiently as we can," Halat said.

The temporary Stampede stands were first established a few years ago in a bid to rein in the dangers associated with hailing a cab from the roadside.

Livery and bylaw officers will also do manual traffic direction along 11 and 12 Avenue SE after the evening fireworks; both roads were aggravating traffic pinch points during last year's edition of the Greatest Outdoor Show on Earth, Halat said.

"The lights do not sync well," he said of the avenues leading away from the north-end of the Stampede grounds. "You've got bumper-to-bumper, you've got buses, you've got food trucks, you name it. What happens is people plug the intersection and no one can move."

Halat said he hopes to establish an actual taxi queue in a lane on Macleod Trail in the future, an idea scrapped last year due to safety concerns. JEREMY NOLAIS/METRO

From 8 a.m. Regulator OKs suds for breakfast, MADD questions last-minute decision

JEREMY NOLAIS

Beer will be served alongside morning flapjacks and beans at this year's Calgary Stampede, as the province's liquor regulator has given the all-clear for alcohol service to begin at 8 a.m.

On parade day Friday, the liquor can start flowing an hour earlier at 7 a.m.

"It's been a long time coming," said Paul Vickers, president of notorious western stomping ground Cowboys.

The Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission announced the pilot project on breakfast-time service Thursday, just hours before annual Sneak-a-Peek festivities got underway on the Stampede grounds.

But anti-drunk-driving advocates questioned the last-minute notice and expressed fears that extended serving hour could be a recipe for disaster.

"We sincerely hope there won't be an increase in impaired driving or the consequences of it," said Terry Hughes, president of the Calgary chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving. "An increase would show that this decision was the wrong one ... and, if it was, it would be too late to do anything about it."

Calgary Police Chief Rick Hanson said Thursday police will monitor the impact on the number of public disorder calls and will "formulate a report" to send to the provincial government later on.

WITH FILES FROM KEN VAN DE WALLE

Not a first

The AGLC plans to review the early-service pilot project at the end of Stampede and develop future policies based on the results.

- A similar trial was conducted earlier this year during the Sochi Olympics in February. Then an allowance of 5 a.m. alcohol service was granted during the Olympic gold-medal hockey game.

Police say search for missing boy, grandparents advancing

Amber Alert. Family members return to home where loved ones were last seen

Police hinted Thursday that they were closing in on potential suspects as the search for a missing Calgary boy and his grandparents expanded.

Officers were busy reviewing security-camera footage from businesses and homes near the property owned by Alvin and Kathryn Liknes. The couple, along with five-year-old grandson Nathan O'Brien, were last seen Sunday night after hosting an estate sale over the weekend.

When Nathan's mother returned to the Parkhill-area home to retrieve her son Monday, the trio were nowhere to be found, and police have said there is evidence that they didn't leave voluntarily.

But while police offered little information on any advances in their investigation, Staff Sgt. Doug Andrus hinted that more details would be released as the search headed into the weekend.

"We have no suspects that we can name, but we have information that's allowed us to move forward with our investigation," Andrus said, noting he expected police would provide another update Friday.

On Thursday, attendees of the Likneses' estate sale were asked to stop by an area community centre and provide photos of any items they might have purchased.

Andrus said investigators were also recording what those people saw and asking them to volunteer for fingerprinting so they could eliminate some of the evidence gathered in the Liknes residence.

Andrus said 20 to 30 people had attended the community centre by midday Thursday, but it's believed 10 times as many attended the weekend sale.

Family members waiting anxiously for word on their loved ones also took a walk through the home for the first time Thursday to help police identify anything that might have been stolen.

But for a second straight day, Andrus declined to discuss what was found inside the home. He said, however, police remained hopeful the missing trio would be found alive.

"Are we closer than yesterday? I would say we are," Andrus said.

Amanda Pick, executive director of the Missing Children Society of Canada, said the Amber Alert called for Nathan is "very rare," noting such public alarms generally come with a description of a suspected abductor or their vehicle, or both.

Pick said statistically the rate of survival for abducted children is higher the quicker they're found, but she added:

"We've seen cases ... (of) miraculous recoveries of children that have been missing long-term." JEREMY NOLAIS/METRO

51 charges in dog hoarding case

The Calgary woman whose home was condemned in May after animal-welfare officials seized 34 dogs from the premises now faces 51 charges under the Animal Protection Act.

Bev Jean Creed, who is well-known in the local show-dog community, was charged with 34 counts of allowing an animal to be in distress as well as 17 counts of failing to provide adequate veterinary care.

"The distress that was suffered was a lack of ventilation, as well as the undue hardship of the general state of the house," officer Brad Nichols with the Calgary Humane Society said Thursday. "The conditions of the home were some of the worst that I've experienced."

Alberta Health Services declared the Acadia home unfit for habitation due to dog feces, high levels of ammonia in the air, and scattered dirt and debris.

About a dozen of the seized dogs were returned to their co-owners, Nichols said, while the rest have been put up for adoption. Most of those have been adopted already, he said.

The number of animals seized from the home was unusually high, but Nichols said humane-society officers regularly encounter "hoarding-type scenarios."

"We deal with probably two to three of these types of houses per year," he said.

Heroin bust at

RCMP officers have laid charges against a 26-year-old woman after she allegedly tried to smuggle 2.82 kilos of heroin through security at the Edmonton International Airport in May.

Rosmin Kaneza arrived in Edmonton May 28, following a flight from Brussels via Reykjavik.

Canada Border Services Agency (CBSA) referred Kaneza for additional screening as she went through customs. After emptying her backpack, agents noticed it remained excessively heavy.

Average rates

Steep price for Calgary hotels
during Stampede

Calgary hotel rooms will cost visitors 69 per cent more this weekend, as the Stampede gets underway, according to data tracked by a hotel-search website.

Trivago.ca reports an average rate of $269 for a double room in Calgary on Friday or Saturday night, compared to $159 on the same days the week before.

The average nightly price for a double room throughout the duration of the Stampede — July 4 to July 13 — stood at $278, according to Trivago. That's about 10 per cent less than the average nightly rates during last year's Stampede. METRO

McCall Lake must drive more traffic: Golf boss

City-owned courses.

Nearly $35 million is needed to fix up five over the next decade

bryan.weismiller@metronews.ca

McCall Lake Golf Course may be out of the rough when it comes to its once-planned closure, but a city official says participation still isn't up to par.

As of July 1, about 17,000 rounds of golf had been played at the only municipal course in northeast Calgary. That's roughly the same as last year and down from the nearly 21,000 played in the early summer season of 2012.

Municipal golf boss Kyle Ripley conceded the numbers are surprising given the highly publicized campaign to keep McCall Lake open.

"If you look purely at the numbers — it is a bit surprising," Ripley said Thursday. "I hear from our customers and the comments are that they see more people out on the course.

"But when you look at the numbers year-over-year (then) the opposite is true."

Ripley was speaking the day after a city hall committee sided with city staff in reversing course on a plan to sell the land and repurpose the site.

The sale was pitched as means of funding the nearly $35-million needed to fix up five city-owned golf courses over the next decade.

Ripley said the status quo isn't good enough and he wants McCall Lake to close the estimated 20,000-round gap between it and the city's other 27-hole course, Shaganappi Point Golf Course.

"If we could cut that gap in half — I'd be a pretty happy guy," he told Metro.

Former alderman John Schmal led the crusade against shuttering the northeast fairways as part of the so-called Save McCall Lake group.

Schmal said the course ap-

McCall Lake Golf Course men's club member Gerry Baron was one of many who aggressively campaigned to keep the 27-hole course open. Here, he shows off one of the leaflets he'd been handing out to course users and putting under windshields in May 2013. METRO FILE pears popular from his view on the front lines, with a near "record number" turning out last Sunday.

"Everybody wants to make sure that the golf course stays open," he said. "The more people golfing, the more revenue."

Warning to the public. Be extra safe in the water: City

The Calgary Fire Department and Bylaw Services are warning the public to be careful when enjoying Calgary's waterways during the hot days of summer.

The rivers in Calgary are currently under a safety advisory, although they're not under a ban. However, the Calgary Fire Department warns Calgarians to stay off the river until it is completely safe.

"Our choice would be that people wait until the water comes down even more and clears up," said Ken Uzeloc, the Deputy Chief of Operations for the Calgary Fire Department.

The river has been far less quick this year than in previous years, down to 250 cubic meters per second compared to 400 cubic meters per second two years ago. However, people who get trapped in the swift waters keep river rescue teams on their toes.

"That's the key that emphasizes when people don't follow all of the safety rules that are in place for them," said Uzeloc about people who have gone missing in the rivers.

The Calgary Fire Department recommends that boaters are properly prepared before going out on the river. This includes life jackets, as well as signaling devices in case someone falls overboard, and something to bail water out of the craft.

Alberta to train more social workers at U of C

Human Services Minister Manmeet Bhullar announces new funding for the Faculty of Social Work at the University of Calgary. ROBSON FLETCHER/METRO

Dozens more social workers will receive degrees from the University of Calgary each year and the school will focus more heavily on child-intervention training, the Alberta government announced Thursday.

Premier Dave Hancock said an additional $1.3 million in funding will mean 25 more students will be able to complete Bachelor of Social Work degrees online starting in the fall, and that number will grow to 100 by 2017-18.

Another 25 seats will be added to the Master of Social Work stream, starting in January 2015.

"Social work is a very difficult, very noble profession," Hancock said. "Social workers are on the front lines. They deal with Alberta's most immediate and most important challenges."

A provincial "task force" will also work with the university to "focus on enhancing education, training and support for workers to help prepare them for the complexities of the child intervention practice," Human Services Minister Manmeet Bhullar said.

"Going forward I hope to see further expansion to this program which will further support child intervention," Bhullar added.

U of C president Elizabeth Cannon said the expanded program will help the Faculty of Social Work meet its mandate to supply staff to support "very vulnerable people" in the province.

"The population absolutely needs more well trained professionals to be able to ensure the best outcomes for each child," she said.

"It's important, and it's a priority for the University of Calgary."

ROBSON FLETCHER/METRO

Funding

In addition to the $1.3 million in program funding, Premier Dave Hancock said the province will devote another $100,000 "to help the faculty develop a stronger curriculum focus on child protection."

This is the story of a sheep who, from the top of her hill, watched the birds fly and thought to herself: "How lucky they are! They can choose how they look at things: from far away, from up close, or from somewhere in between."

One day, the sheep had an idea and ran to see the wolf. "I have to talk to you!" she shouted. He stopped what he was doing and listened. "Let's build a flying machine!"

"Do you think it's that simple?! You spend too much time watching the birds in the sky," said the wolf, shaking his head. But eventually the sheep's dream got the better of the wolf's doubts, and they started working on the machine together.

They gathered fabric and rods and followed the plans they had designed. When they were ready, they started the machine and took off into the sky. But the fabric wasn't strong enough. It soon ripped and they tumbled to the ground. "Let's try again," said the sheep, and she blew up some balloons.

"Hold tight!" she shouted. This time, as soon as they got the machine off the ground, birds popped the balloons. "Oh dear!" shouted the wolf. "This is never going to work!" But they decided to try one more time. The sheep had a new idea. She got the wolf to cut out a dragon's tail, while she cut out a head. This time, it worked. They were flying! And, steadily and surely, they continued to fly.

Someone once wrote that only those who dream learn to fly. "See?" said the sheep. "What did I tell you?" "Anything is possible," admitted the wolf. The sky before them was wide open.

Mr. King lives on top of a BIG hill. He wants to build himself a BIG castle. Mr. King likes BIG things. CHOP! CHOP! CHOP! Mr. King starts chopping off blocks to build his castle. He is too busy to notice the BIG holes he is leaving behind.

CHOP! CHOP! CHOP! Mr. King's friends come running. "What is that NOISE?" "What are these HOLES?" "What are these BLOCKS?"

Mr. King is too busy to hear them. Block by block, bit by bit, his castle is getting BIGGER and BIGGER.

Mr. King chops until there is nothing left to chop and builds until there is nothing left to build with. Then he stops and proudly looks out the window. "Hmm...there isn't much of a view," says Mr. King.

Down below, his friends are grumbling. "What happened to the hill?" ask Bert and Tex. "What happened to my favorite napping spot?" asks Harriet. "Where are the flowers?" wonders Old Jim Elk. "What happened to the grass I eat?" asks P.J. "And where is our secret stash of nuts?!" cry Skit and Skat. One by one, they gather under the castle window. Everyone is staring at Mr. King, and suddenly he feels very small.

"Uh-oh. That was a BIG mistake," he says after a while. "Maybe I should put everything back."

"YAY!!!" All his friends jump up to help. Together they start taking down the BIG castle, block by block, bit by bit. And block by block, bit by bit, they put everything back just like it was before.

...Well, ALMOST like it was before. "There is one piece left," says Mr. King. "But I don't see where it fits. What shall we do with it?"

After whispering to the others, Tex says: "Close your eyes. We have an idea." When Mr. King opens his eyes, his friends sing out "SURPRISE!!" Tonight, in his small castle, Mr. King is going to have a BIG party!

THE MOST MAGNIFICENT THING

AUTHOR/ILLUSTRATOR: Ashley Spires
PUBLISHED BY: Kids Can Press

This is a regular girl and her best friend in the whole wide world. They do all kinds of things together. They race. They eat. They explore. They relax. She makes things. He unmakes things.

One day, the girl has a wonderful idea. She is going to make the most MAGNIFICENT thing!

She knows just how it will look. She knows just how it will work. All she has to do is make it, and she makes things all the time. Easy-peasy!

First, she hires an assistant. Next, they gather their supplies. They set up somewhere out of the way and get to work.

The girl tinkers and hammers and measures...while her assistant pounces and growls and chews. When she is finished, she steps back to admire her work. She walks around one side. Her assistant examines the other side... It doesn't look right. Her assistant picks it up and gives it a shake. It doesn't feel right, either.

They are shocked to discover that the thing isn't magnificent. Or good. It isn't even kind-of-sort-of okay. It is all WRONG. The girl tosses it aside and gives it another go. She smooths and wrenches and fiddles. Her assistant circles and tugs and wags.

When she is finished, she stands up and takes a long look at it. Her assistant gives it a nudge with his paw. The thing is still wrong. She decides to try again.

SPORK

AUTHOR: Kyo Maclear
ILLUSTRATOR: Isabelle Arsenault
PUBLISHED BY: Kids Can Press

Spork was neither spoon nor fork...
...but a bit of both.

He had a mum and a dad...
...who both thought he was perfect just the way he was.

But Spork stuck out. In his kitchen, forks were forks and spoons were spoons. Cutlery customs were followed closely. Mixing was uncommon. Naturally, there were rule breakers: knives who loved chopsticks, tongs who married forks. But such families were unusual.

One day, after the billionth time he was asked "What are you, anyway?" and the zillionth time he was passed over when the table was being set...

...Spork sighed and thought, "It must be easier to be a single thing." And he decided he'd try to pick just one thing to be.

He thought he should start by fixing his head. He put on a bowler hat to look more spoonish. But the forks thought he was too round.

Then he made a paper crown to look more forkish. But the spoons thought he was too pointy. Spork wondered if there were other lonely creatures out there with no matching kind, who never got chosen to be at the table.

At dinnertime, he watched from the drawer while the spoons played pea hockey and skillfully balanced boiled eggs. He sat off to the side while the forks raked fancy patterns in the mashed potatoes and twirled noodles around in complicated circles like rhythmic gymnasts. And at the end of this and every other meal, Spork looked on while the others enjoyed a super-bubbly bath in the sink.

Until one morning, a messy thing arrived.

Bruce Burrell. Calgary fire chief, CEMA boss retiring at month's end

Fire Chief Bruce Burrell, who also serves as director of the Calgary Emergency Management Agency (CEMA), revealed Thursday he will retire by month's end.

"I can confirm he is retiring by the end of July," fire department spokesperson Carol Henke told Metro.

Burrell announced his decision to fire department staff earlier in the day, Henke said, but was not available to speak publicly about his decision.

Deputy Chief Tom Sampson called Burrell a "great man," a "great leader," and a "great visionary" in a tweet Thursday morning.

The retirement revelation comes less than 24 hours after the Conference Board of Canada lauded CEMA for its response during the June 2013 flood, saying the agency set an example for other jurisdictions to follow.

Satymoorthy Kabilan, the board's director of national security and strategic foresight, said "the city responded very effectively" to the disaster with Burrell at the helm and, along with Mayor Naheed Nenshi, acting as the public face of the flood response.

Burrell wasn't always popular during his nine-year tenure as fire chief, however. The firefighters union publicly rebuked him at an international gathering in 2012, citing concerns over the safety of its members and the public, as well as response times to fire calls.

CALGARY'S STAMPEDING PACE SLOWS FOR PANCAKE BREAKFAST

IN DEFENCE OF
Mike Morrison
calgary@metronews.ca

As Calgarians, we're apparently always in a hurry.

Outside the window of my downtown apartment, I always hear cars honking, almost constantly. During the cycle track debate, a major sticking point was that some tracks might add an additional 30 to 60 seconds to people's commute during the peak of rush hour.

And who hasn't talked to someone about this summer's road construction? But starting this week and until next Sunday, an annual tradition will cause busy Calgarians to come to a grinding halt. What could be the one thing that makes all walks of life in Calgary finally slow down?

Well, free pancakes, of course.

Yes, from now until the end of Stampede there will be more than 250 free pancake breakfasts. The Stampede's Pancake Caravan alone will serve more than 200,000 pancakes. According to the website freestampedepancakes.com, dozens of celebrities and musicians are scheduled to make appearances, too.

But, I have to admit, I'm a part of what I think is a small group of people who don't really get that excited over Stampede breakfasts.

After talking to some people about it this week, I see how pancake breakfasts turn into great community events, bringing together neighbours and friends alike. But truthfully, when I go to a pancake breakfast I see something else altogether. Besides pandering politicians, I mostly see giant lines — something we all normally tend to avoid — unless, I guess, there's free food involved.

And don't get me wrong, I love free food. I'm a freelance writer in Calgary, I quite literally live off the stuff. But I'm genuinely surprised when I walk into a parking lot and see hundreds, sometimes

Happy flapjacks

And don't get me wrong, I love free food. I'm a freelance writer in Calgary, I quite literally live off the stuff. But I'm genuinely surprised when I walk into a parking lot and see hundreds, sometimes thousands, of people happily standing in line for a breakfast that would probably cost them $1.50 if they made it themselves at home.

thousands, of people happily standing in line for a breakfast that would probably cost them $1.50 if they made it themselves at home.

Is this not the same city that's always complaining about being too busy? Where are the folks that insist on racing down Deerfoot Trail? Oh, I see them back there, standing in line for cold coffee. And what about the people who spent months of their lives complaining about urban developments that could potentially add a few seconds to their commute home? Oh, there they are, going back for a second juice box. I almost didn't see them there. It's funny how quickly priorities change when maple syrup is involved.

I'm actually happy so many people get out of their homes, away from their computers and maybe use these free pancake breakfasts to explore the city. Hopefully many of them will realize that the things they love are the things many people were fighting for all along.

Commissioner: Education minister violated privacy laws

'Transparency' Ruling reveals laws contravened when Jeff Johnson used personal email addresses to contact teachers

Metro in Edmonton

Alberta Premier Dave Hancock said he still has confidence in Education Minister Jeff Johnson, after it was revealed Thursday that Johnson had violated freedom of information laws.

According to the ruling released by Privacy Commissioner Jill Clayton, Johnson contravened provincial privacy laws last year when he used personal email addresses to contact teachers.

"The heart of this matter is transparency," Clayton said in a prepared release. "Even if you have the authority to share information, it's important to be upfront with people as to why their personal information is being collected and how it will be used. This reduces the likelihood of complaints."

In a statement issued to Metro, Johnson said the ministry co-operated with the privacy commissioner and is currently reviewing the ruling.

"As the ministry is both the registrar and regulator of the teaching profession, we will work with the Privacy Commissioner to ensure we develop a method of communicating on professional matters that reaches as many teachers as possible while also respecting the commissioner's ruling," he said.

He went on to say it's critical for the province to have a direct line to Alberta's teachers.

"I believe teachers deserve to hear from me directly about issues and developments that may affect them," Johnson said.

Some teachers don't have a work email, said Johnson, and use a personal email for work. "They deserve to receive the same information provided to their colleagues," he said.

Alberta Teachers' Association president Mark Ramsankar said there were a lot of irate teachers when the email from Johnson was first sent out.

"The concern is if private information is going to be handled, it should be handled in a prudent manner," he said.

Ramsankar also questioned Johnson's claims about personal email addresses being used.

"If a teacher doesn't have a work email address or access to it in the area they are working, the question is, 'Why?'" he said.

Warp speed ahead for Shatner at the Calgary Stampede

He's parade marshal, Jim. Legendary TV starship captain has two words for anyone who thinks he can lead in real life: 'Follow me.'

He may have played a captain on TV, but now William Shatner will have to prove his leadership skills are more than just an act.

Not unlike leading the crew of the Starship Enterprise, Shatner, 83, will take command of the Calgary Stampede parade on Friday morning as parade marshal.

Shatner appeared more than up for the task on Thursday afternoon, and had a message to all those who may doubt his ability to captain the parade: "Follow me."

"I urge you all to come to the Calgary Stampede," he said. "It is going to be more fun than a barrel of monkeys."

Though Shatner is an avid horseman, he won't be leading the parade atop his steed, but instead will be riding with his wife in an antique car.

Year after year, the Calgary Stampede has managed to wrangle big names to act as parade marshals.

Last year saw retired astronaut Chris Hadfield take the reins of the parade, and Shatner joked about following in the steps of a real spaceman.

"There is reason to believe it (the moon landing) was all a hoax," said Shatner. "Where, as you know, it really was a hoax with me."

Joining Shatner on the parade route as honorary parade marshals will be Calgary's favourite bromance, Olympic

I guess that's my cue

Shatner shared more of his life story Thursday afternoon through an exclusive event called My Life and My Love of Horses.

- Shatner will be in three films this year.
- He is also working on a number of television projects in 2014.

speedskaters Denny Morrison and Gilmore Junio, as a part of the 102nd celebration of the Greatest Outdoor Show on Earth.

"The Stampede is 102 years old, it was created in celebration of my birthing, the day I was born," joked Shatner.

New police team ready to hit the International Avenue beat

Foot patrol. 24/7 operation will work with the community on crime prevention

calgary@metronews.ca

With fears downtown Calgary criminal activity has seeped into surrounding communities, city police have put more dedicated boots in the area with international flavour.

The Calgary Police, the City of Calgary and the International Avenue Business Revitalization Zone unveiled Thursday the International Avenue Beat Team, a unit of 16 constables and one sergeant who will be patrolling the area starting Sunday.

"What we've done here today is fulfilled a commitment that we have made to this community and to city council," said Calgary police Chief Rick Hanson.

The team will be a foot patrol group working in the community surrounding International Avenue. They will be operating 24/7, working with the community on crime prevention.

The team was created following concern that criminal activities had leaked from the City's core after the Clean the Core initiative operating in downtown.

"The (Calgary Police) is responsive to community needs, and this is another example of them stepping up and showing a positive front," said Alison Karim-McSweeney of the International Avenue BRZ.

"The community could not ask for a better partner."

The team's patrol area encompasses 35 blocks centred around 17 Avenue SE, with more than 425 businesses serving the neighbourhood.

Police Chief Rick Hanson (centre back) with the members of the new International Avenue Beat Team. KEN VAN DE WALLE/FOR METRO

"We have become much more of an inner-city type community. The police force that existed in the past served the community well, but this community is evolving," said Ward 10 Coun. Andre Chabot.

"We've been advocating for this for a long time."

The purpose of the team is to be more interactive and involved with the community. Since they are on foot, the hope is officers will be more approachable, as well as be able to pick up on potential crimes before they happen, officials said.

"As we secured downtown, so (do) we intend to make this community safer for everybody," said police Chief Hanson.

They've got the beat

There are around 50,000 residents living in the area around International Avenue.

- Although they will patrol on foot, the new International Avenue Beat Team will be operating out of a new mobile command centre.
- The Beat Team was created as by a partnership between Calgary Police Service and the City of Calgary to help strengthen the community.

Heritage Station. Long-awaited pedestrian bridge opens to fanfare

London bridge has finally fallen into place — and it's now open for thousands of south-west condo dwellers in need of an easier route to Heritage Station.

The city held a grand opening Thursday morning on the $6.5-million pedestrian crossing, located across the rail tracks from the U.K.-themed condo highrises that back onto Horton Road S.W.

Area councillor Brian Pincott has maintained the bridge should've been built before the towers started going up six years ago.

At the ribbon-cutting event, however, Pincott held up the crossing as a model of the pedestrian-friendly infrastructure that some on city council are pushing for.

"You may think of this as a local piece of infrastructure, but it actually serves the entire city," he said, explaining that it likely encourages people to take transit into the core.

months to complete.

City head of transportation infrastructure Michael Thompson touted it as a successful cost-shared project with the tower developer.

"Pedestrian bridges build connections," said Thompson. "And opening access to this bridge before the Calgary Stampede parade day allows Calgarians to connect to transit and regional pathways in a safer, easier way in time to enjoy the festivities."

Fort McMurray

Child-sex sting ends in charges

Officers with the Alberta Law Enforcement Response Team arrested a 30-year-old Fort McMurray man last month, whom they allege believed he was meeting a 13-year-old for sex.

Police arrested the man at a Fort McMurray hotel on June 27. The man had been conversing with a police investigator masquerading as a girl.

Jason Arthur Laurier has been charged with 13 offences. METRO

Truck loses

Semi truck slams into train bridge

In an annual tradition at various points in the city, a semi truck collided with a train bridge early Thursday morning.

Just after 4 a.m., the Calgary Fire Department was called to 9th Avenue and 1st Street S.W. There was significant damage to the trailer unit, but the bridge only suffered minor damage. 1st Street was closed for damage assessment but reopened later that morning. METRO

Centenarian, Calgary Transit share birthday

Service and senior both 105 years young. Bus driver recalls taking her to buy romance novels

bryan.weismiller@metronews.ca

Unlike so many of the buses she's ridden over the past 104 years, Bennie Panaro has a motor that keeps on ticking.

And on Saturday, the centenarian will celebrate another milestone she shares with the city's public transportation branch: birthday No. 105.

Panaro seldom spoke Thursday, but smiled warmly under her signature red hat as Calgary Transit drivers and her family gathered to mark the special occasion — albeit a couple days early.

In a 2009 interview with Metro, a more loquacious Panaro recalled her earliest transit memory.

"I remember when you went to Bowness you had to pay an extra nickel, that's how long I've been (riding the bus)," she said.

Panaro arrived in Calgary from Winnipeg in 1935 and has lived in the same two-storey home since it was built a couple blocks from the Bow River.

She's long joked the secret to her longevity is "one-a-day," meaning whiskey in the winter and vodka in the summer.

While she still volunteers once a week at the Bethany Care Centre, Panaro is mulling retirement.

Public bus driver Sharon Bruder remembers driving Panaro to church on Sundays behind the wheel of route No. 414. She also recalled dropping her off at North Hill Shopping Centre to pick up romance novels.

"It's been an awesome experience," she said. "Even just talking to her today brightened my life up."

Calgary man gets seven years for fatal stabbing

A Calgary man who pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the stabbing of his friend has been sentenced to seven years in prison.

Byron Blanchard and 18-year-old Joshua Hogarth were out drinking before being kicked out of a bar in August 2012 for fighting.

Police were called in and cooler heads seemed to have prevailed as each went their separate way. However, childish and offensive text messages were exchanged that had Hogarth head to Blanchard's home. In a confrontation, Hogarth was stabbed and later died.

Blanchard was initially charged with second-degree murder in Hogarth's death.

With credit for time served,

Blanchard still has four years and three months to serve.

The victim's mother, Debbie Hogarth, says she is disappointed with the plea deal.

But she says she's happy the court process is over and wants to move on. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Living estate sale to raise money for High River studio

JESSICA PATTERSON

A High River artist is selling 80 per cent of her artwork in Calgary, at a "living" estate sale Friday through Sunday, hoping to raise funds for a new studio in High River.

For artist Larissa McLean, the idea to pare down her possessions came after her father-in-law and Turner Valley artist Will Magee died.

"There was 50 years of artwork in his studio, and I realized that could be me in 50 years," she said Wednesday.

McLean, a Calgary horticulture teacher by day, has been an artist for most of her life. She had accumulated artwork that filled her basement, her studio and most of the rooms in her great-grandmother's High River house. A lot of it was lost when dirty flood waters swamped her home last year.

But now, McLean's ready to start a new chapter in her life. "We're looking at downsizing, that's what's really important," she said.

Much of McLean's personal art collection, as well pieces of art are up for sale at McLean's living estate sale, Friday through Sunday.

"I want people to have this sense of freedom when they walk into the new studio."

Artist Larissa McLean

as her own works, collectibles, computers, jewelry, clothing, musical instruments and furniture will be up for sale at the estate sale. Between 500 and 600 pieces of art hang on the walls of her Calgary home and studio, priced and ready to go.

The funds raised from the estate sale will go to McLean's new studio in High River, Aquila, which is Latin for eagle.

The new studio will offer art therapy to the community.

"The whole premise of the studio in High River is this idea of taking flight," she said. "I want people to have this sense of freedom when they walk into the new studio."

She's hoping to be able to offer artist residencies in the new studio in High River, over the next couple of years.

"Every summer, a graduating student from ACAD would come and stay in the place, that's the goal," she said.

McLean's estate sale starts Friday at noon and runs until Sunday at 224 Rundview Drive, NE.

Seizure of illegal steroids a record-breaker: Police

Charges have been laid against an Alberta man following the seizure of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of illegal steroids from an Edmonton production lab.

Investigators say a four-month probe and a tip to police led to the seizure in an Edmonton apartment in late May.

They say the lab contained large quantities of steroids in pill, liquid and powdered form.

An apartment in nearby Fort Saskatchewan, where the suspect lives, was also searched.

Scott Pattison, an Edmonton police spokesman, says the steroid seizure is the largest of its kind in the history of the Edmonton Police Service.

Rees Baron, who is 32, will be in court July 17 on charges that include possession of a controlled substance for the purpose of trafficking.

Sex killer Bernardo engaged?

'Love' behind bars.
There's nothing the government can do about it, says justice minister

Federal Justice Minister Peter MacKay says there's nothing the government can do to prevent Paul Bernardo from communicating with a woman who is reportedly planning to marry the convicted killer.

"That's not really an issue before the Justice Department," MacKay said Thursday.

"There hasn't been an action. There hasn't been preventative steps taken to prevent contact.... We can't stop a person from communicating through letters and emails unless there is something that is seen as harassing or criminal in its intent."

Convicted killer Paul Bernardo is serving an indeterminate sentence for the slayings of two schoolgirls, a dozen rapes and more than two dozen other sex offences — but there

Marriage to a convict

- If the marriage did take place, Corrections Canada would determine if Bernardo would be allowed to meet with his wife behind bars.
- Prisoners are permitted private visits of up to 72 hours once every two months. A former Millhaven inmate told Torstar that prisoners often are able to increase that visiting time in swaps with other inmates.

are still women who reportedly want to marry him.

The latest is reported to be a 30-year-old university graduate from London, Ont., who began corresponding with Bernardo last fall, according to QMI news agency.

Corrections Canada declines to comment on individual cases. But Tim Danson, a lawyer for the families of the murdered schoolgirls, has plenty to say. "He should not be given any privileges," Danson told Torstar News Service Thursday.

He also said the woman who considers herself to be Bernardo's fiancée needs plenty of help. "People close to her have to reach out to her and save her from herself," he said. "Just the thought of it is disturbing."

Still, there are plenty of women who struggle to make contact with Bernardo through letters. One website for prisoners' families features a hot discussion on whether it's right to try to make contact with Bernardo.

"I write to Paul all the time. I send him cards and no I don't have a fetish for concrete!" a woman who identified herself as "shoes" wrote. "I have read many books on his crimes and for some reason I hold compassion for him. Its deep in my bones and I can't let it go."

Another woman, who identified herself as "brandy99," wrote that she can see a difference between Bernardo the man and Bernardo the criminal.

Bride-to-be

'Paul's girl' believes he is innocent

In a report published on Thursday, the Quebec-owned QMI does not name the 30-year-old bride-to-be. It says that even her family doesn't believe the ceremony behind bars will ever take place.

According to QMI, the couple first met last fall after she wrote Bernardo, and the bride-to-be believes he is innocent even though he made videos of his victims in captivity.

"He has convinced her that he didn't do this (rapes or murders)," her father told QMI.

QMI says the bride-to-be has a tattoo on her ankle that says "Paul's girl," and the engagement has caused tensions within her family.

Alleged shooter to undergo psych test

A young man charged with fatally shooting three RCMP officers and wounding two others in Moncton, N.B., last month will return to court July 31 after undergoing a psychiatric assessment.

Justin Bourque, 24, is facing three first-degree murder charges and two counts of attempted murder. He has not entered pleas on the charges.

Judge Irwin Lambert said he received from the defence on Thursday an affidavit signed by Victor Bourque, the accused's father, outlining why he believed a psychiatric assessment was justified.

The Crown agreed to the defence request to send Bourque for a psychiatric assessment, which will be conducted at the Shepody Healing Centre in Dorchester, N.B.

Israel gathering military forces on Gaza border

Hamas. Increased wave of rocket fire out of Gaza has further stoked tensions since three Israeli teens were found dead last week

The Israeli military rushed additional forces to its southern border with the Gaza Strip on Thursday, vowing to halt a growing wave of rocket fire from the Palestinian territory. Meanwhile, new clashes erupted in east Jerusalem in response to the death of an Arab boy who Palestinians say was killed by Israeli extremists.

Israel said the show of force on the Gaza border was a defence measure. But persistent rocket fire raised the prospects of a tough Israeli response, with the military saying more than 40 rockets or mortar shells were fired from Hamas-controlled Gaza on Thursday.

Tensions have been high since three Israeli teenagers were abducted in the West Bank on June 12, sparking a massive manhunt that ended with the discovery of their bodies early this week. Israel has blamed Hamas for the abductions and launched a crackdown on the Islamic militant group in the West Bank, drawing rocket attacks out of Gaza and Israeli airstrikes in a near-daily cycle of retaliation.

The situation deteriorated further on Wednesday after the burned body of a Palestinian youth, whose identity was confirmed Thursday as Mohammed Abu Khdeir, was found in a forest after he was seized near his home in east Jerusalem. The Palestinians accused Israeli extremists of killing the teen in a revenge attack over the deaths of the Israeli youths.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu tried

Thursday to calm the situation, condemning Abu Khdeir's killing and vowing to find the attackers.

"We don't know yet the motives or the identities of the perpetrators, but we will. We will bring to justice the criminals responsible for this despicable crime whoever they may be," Netanyahu said in a speech celebrating U.S. Independence Day at the American Embassy in Tel Aviv. "Murder, riots, incitement, vigilantism, they have no place in our democracy."

Following an especially intense barrage of rocket fire, including two projectiles that hit homes in the southern Israeli town of Sderot, Israel sent tanks, artillery and ground forces to the border area early Thursday, defence officials said.

Israel has launched two large-scale operations in Gaza in recent years in response to rocket fire on its south, most recently in 2012. The fighting ended in a cease-fire.

The Israeli military said 34 of the rockets or mortar shells fired Thursday exploded inside Israel while the rest blew up prematurely inside Gaza or were shot down. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pistorius called a 'paradox'

Oscar Pistorius is a "paradox" whose past triumphs as a sprinter crossing the finish line with raised arms contrasted sharply with the daily, severe limitations that he endured because of his disability, a physician testified Thursday at the runner's murder trial.

Wayne Derman, a professor of sport and exercise medicine at the University of Cape Town, said in court that the contrast likely contributed to stress and anxiety for Pistorius, who fatally shot girlfriend Reeva

Steenkamp through a closed toilet door in his home. He testified for the defence, which wants to show that the athlete had a deep sense of vulnerability and it was a factor in what he has described as a mistaken shooting. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Indiegogo's mobile app comes to Canada first

Finally! For once, our country gets something before the rest of the world. OK, so it's an app for a crowdfunding platform ... We'll take it Indiegogo, which bills itself as the world's largest crowdfunding platform, is looking to grow with a move into mobile apps — starting in Canada.

The San Francisco-based company announced Thursday that Canadians are getting early access to its first mobile app, which is now available on Apple's App Store. The app will be rolling out to other countries in a couple of months, said Indiegogo CEO Slava Rubin.

"Canada is a really important country for us, in terms of volume, it's the second-largest country for us in the world ... and we send money to 70 to 100 countries a week," said Rubin, who added that an app for Google Android devices is expected before year's end. "The Canadian users have been great with their feedback and we feel like it's a great opportunity."

to help pay for their plan. Supporters are typically offered rewards in exchange for donating to help to get the idea off the ground.

Rubin said mobile usage on Indiegogo has grown dramatically in recent years and the new app is designed to help users support or launch campaigns on the go.

"We see the mobile app as an extension of where we're moving forward with our innovation," he said.

"I would say if we were starting Indiegogo from scratch today and there was nothing else existing, there's a good chance we would go mobile-only. Adding apps is just an extension of where the market and customers are taking us."

Google. 'Freedom to be forgotten' online versus the freedom of the press

Google's removal of search results in Europe is drawing accusations of press censorship, as stories from some of the continent's most prominent news outlets begin vanishing. The U.S. Internet giant said Thursday it is getting 1,000 requests a day to scrub results.

The U.S. firm must comply with a May ruling from the European Union's top court that enables citizens to ask for the removal of embarrassing personal information that pops up on a search of their names.

Among links to vanish were stories on a soccer referee who resigned after a scandal in 2010, French office workers making post-it art, a couple having sex on a train and a lawyer facing a fraud trial.

At least three British media outlets, including the BBC, said

Every dude has now taken up jogging, and they're leaving their shirts at home.

5 Thicke skin. When you plan hashtag conversations on Twitter, bear in mind things can go horribly wrong. Exhibit A: The Twitter Q&A #AskThicke with Robin Thicke this week that was bombarded by questions about the crooner's misogynistic lyrics and marital woes. Now, ER gave him a clean bill of health, but he won't ever forget his July 1 fireworks.

GONE FISHIN'

A sea cormorant is placed in a basket to be transported to a fishing boat in Gifu, Japan. In this traditional fishing art, a cormorant master manages the birds to capture fish. For more photos of the hunt, scan this image with your Metro News app. CHRIS MCGRATH/GETTY IMAGES

Trout fishing in Gifu prefecture

Ukai is a traditional method of catching small Japanese trout by manipulating seabirds called cormorants in the Nagaragawa River. It's been taking place every year in Japan since the 700s.

Master trainers of cormorants dressed in ancient costume freely manipulate 10 to 12 wild sea cormorants to skilfully catch small trout.

This fishing is performed every night between May 11 and Oct. 15 except during a full moon or in heavy rain.

The only illuminations are the pine torches lit on the boats.

Master trainers of cormorants belong to the Imperial Household Agency, and an important duty of theirs is to make offerings of small trout to the Emperor.

It is prescribed that in each generation the eldest son succeeds his father, and these men live with cormorants in order to train them every day.

JNTO.GO.JP

How it all goes down

Beginning at dusk, each fisherman leads about a dozen cormorants on leashes who swim alongside the boat and dive under the water to catch fish by swallowing them whole.

- The fish are kept in a special pouch in the cormorant's throat to be retrieved later.
- The fish are prevented from being swallowed by a snare around the neck of the bird.

Enjoy the Apes of summer

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Hot weather, cool movies. Sci-fi adventure, biopics, mature romantic comedy and sex are all on moviegoers' menu this summer

Richard: Mark, I was a huge Planet of the Apes fan as a kid. Loved the rubber masks, the twisty endings and the "YOU MANIACS! YOU BLEW IT UP!" scene still blows my mind.

Saw them over and over, and even enjoyed the bad ones like Conquest of the Planet of the Apes.

Today, as an adult, I have a full-sized Cornelius bust with faux chimpanzee hair in my office. So, given my obsession with simian cinema, my inner 14-year-old goes a bit ape every time I see the Dawn of the Planet of the Apes trailer. What's got you excited this summer?

Mark: I'm a Planet of the Apes fan, too, Richard. The idea of animals acting like humans is a welcome change from my life in show business, where humans act like animals.

I'm really looking forward to Lucy, starring Scarlett Johansson in a Luc Besson revenge/action flick.

This is Scarlett's moment, and this is going to be the movie to make her a megastar. The trailer made me spill my popcorn!

RC: Johansson is doing interesting work these days, splitting her time between rock 'em, sock 'em movies like Captain America: The Winter Soldier and smaller movies like Chef and Under the Skin.

Michael Fassbender has a similar career arc. We last saw him in X-Men: Days of Future Past. Next up he's in Frank, a strange indie based on the life of Frank Sidebottom, a real-life English musician who wore a giant papier-mâché head complete with painted-on eyes, ruby red lips and slicked-back hair.

I love Fassbender for still taking chances on movies like this when he could easily cash big Hollywood paycheques time after time.

MB: Sounds like one strange biopic, Richard! A more commercial variant I'm looking forward to is Get On Up, the James Brown story starring Chadwick Boseman. The Godfather of Soul never wore a papier-mâché head, but he was big on ermine capes and tantrums, so this should be a lot of fun. And what a soundtrack it will be!

For life lessons and laughs, there's And So It Goes, a mature rom-com starring Michael Douglas and Diane Keaton. Bring your CARP card for discounts on soft-chew treats from the concession stand.

RC: I don't have a CARP card .... yet. I do like soft chew candies, however.

As far as movies go, I'm curious about Guardians of the Galaxy. So many of the summer's blockbusters have been oh-so-serious affairs

Flick picks

When the Reel Guys aren't at the movies, one of their favourite things to do is talk about going to the movies.

- This week Richard and Mark have a look at talking apes, a vengeful Scarlett Johansson, and a singer with a papier-mâché head and a talking raccoon.
- So throw some popcorn on the BBQ, crank up the air conditioning and enjoy the Reel Guys' most anticipated films of the summer season.

AUGMENTED REALITY

that I think this one promises some good laughs and action.

MB: The cast suggests it might be more than your typical sci-fi adventure. But it's Jason Segel and Cameron Diaz in Sex Tape that gets me hot. Big laughs, lots of action, at least of the horizontal variety.

Canadian director Bruce LaBruce says his new film is shocking for how mainstream it is. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Provocative director gets soft in latest film

Gerontophilia.

Bruce LaBruce insists it's still fetish first, despite his tale of intergenerational sex having a notable tinge of sweetness

Toronto filmmaker, underground pornographer and all-around boundary-baiting provocateur Bruce LaBruce has accomplished something downright outrageous with his latest picture, Gerontophilia: he made something accessible, tender and — gasp — sort of mainstream.

In the 50-year-old's estimation, it's perhaps the most shocking move he could have made.

"I was expecting a certain amount of backlash (or blowback)," the director said over coffee at last September's Toronto International Film Festival.

"I've made seven feature films pretty much all with explicit content, and suddenly to change gears and make something a little more accessible, possibly a little more mainstream — certainly done more within an industry context, government financing, my first union crew, etc.

"I would expect some raised eyebrows," he continued.

"I'm saying it's shocking sometimes not to be shocking. The scandal is that there is no scandal."

Still, fans of LaBruce's more nakedly daring work will still find layers of subtext to chew on in what otherwise seems his first pleasant trifle.

Gerontophilia, which opens Friday in Toronto, centres on Lake (newcomer Pier-Gabriel Lajoie), an 18-year-old who takes a job in a nursing home. There, he develops feelings for an 81-year-old resident of the facility (portrayed by the estimable Walter Borden), and an unlikely romance blossoms.

Although there's a sweetness to the relationship and LaBruce's film in general, he's characteristically quick to undercut it. He wanted the film to be about a fetish — hence the title — and not a story of love overcoming a seemingly insurmountable difference.

In other words, Lake doesn't fall for Mr. Peabody in spite of their chasmic age disparity, but precisely because of it.

"I very consciously made him not gay-identified — he has a girlfriend," LaBruce said of the younger character.

"I also consciously start out with his fetish first. That's why the film is about gerontophilia — he does have several encounters with old men where he gets excited.

"He doesn't quite understand why."

The film is LaBruce's first to be deemed acceptable for audiences as young as 14 in Canada, a fact that excited him.

While it isn't sexually explicit, LaBruce's camera does quite intentionally linger on Borden's body, and he acknowledges he was interested in the "strong taboo" of sex among the elderly.

"Even within a slightly more mainstream context, I wanted to have this kind of perhaps gently satiric aspect to the film," he said.

"It is the old man's body that is kind of quote-unquote objectified. He's the love object.

"He's the object of desire. And the camera explores his body.

Theft. Fans left fuming after famed Fault in Our Stars bench goes missing

The bench from The Fault in Our Stars has been stolen from its spot in Amsterdam. CONTRIBUTED Fans of The Fault in Our Stars discovered that a canal-side bench in Amsterdam that's the site of a key scene in the romantic drama had gone missing as they traced a tour of movie-centric moments around the Dutch capital.

The disappearance went undetected by city authorities as the bench was swiftly replaced by a flowerpot, filling up the gap in street furniture.

"It's a bit embarrassing, because we do keep good track of them, but it's gone all right," city spokesman Stephan van der Hoek told The Hollywood Reporter. "Keep your eyes on eBay," he remarked, with an eye on the seat's possible eventual destination.

The city was tipped off after film fans started making inquiries as to the missing bench's whereabouts.

Released in June, Josh Boone's adaptation of the John Green young adult novel stars Shailene Woodley and Ansel Elgort as the teens who meet at a cancer patients' support group in the U.S. The pair then visits Amsterdam to track down an elusive author.

As well as sitting on the canal-side bench, the two share a kiss in the attic of the Anne Frank House museum, though real tours of the attraction don't ascend into the loft space.

And while the bench was likely removed with intent, the flowerpot may have been an act of serendipity rather than deliberate decoy, Der Hoek said: Neighbours often club together to improve their own environs.

Oscar auction sparks lawsuit

The organization that hosts the Academy Awards has sued over the recent auction of a 1942 Oscar awarded to the art director of My Gal Sal and is seeking to buy back the statuette for $10.

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences filed the lawsuit Tuesday in Los Angeles County Superior Court against Rhode Island-based Briarbrook Auction Services.

Briarbrook sold the Oscar for $79,200 on June 24. My Gal Sal starred Rita Hayworth, and the art direction award to Joseph Wright was its only Academy Award win.

The academy adopted a rule in 1951 prohibiting winners or their heirs from selling Oscars. It is seeking an order requiring Briarbrook to sell it the Oscar for $10 in accordance with the academy bylaws.

Briarbrook owner Nanci Thompson said she has not seen the lawsuit. But she noted that Wright's Oscar predated the academy's sales prohibition and said her company was careful before offering it for sale.

The lawsuit does not identify who purchased the statuette.

To Schepisi, with love and chemistry

Words and Pictures.

Clive Owen and Juliette Binoche made this director's work easy with their breezy on-screen pairing

scene@metronews.ca

In director Fred Schepisi's new romantic comedy Words and Pictures, there's a moving scene in which actor Clive Owen, playing an alcoholic English professor, slurringly confronts his weary adult son on the street, tearfully revealing a transgression and begging for forgiveness.

It's the moment in the otherwise lighthearted romp in which you realize that the picture has a profound ache in its heart.

It's also the moment when you are reminded about how good an actor Owen can be.

"Clive is a really passionate actor who thinks he's been given a great chance in life," the veteran filmmaker says of the British thespian, star of such diverse films as Croupier and Sin City.

"He brings a real preparation to everything he does, an intense level of interest in creating a role. Which is, of course, fantastic for me because he was also open to whatever I thought could improve. He's a magnificent performer."

Owen is the male half of the frothy, sophisticated movie, in which his cocksure yet troubled writer/professor bumps up against Juliette Binoche's elegant, tough and yet physically damaged painter/art teacher in a battle of wits that eventually leads to love.

Words and Pictures is the 18th film directed by Aussie-born Schepisi who has proved time and time again — in films ranging from The Russia House to Six Degrees of Separation — that he is nothing if not an actor's director.

"Both Clive and Juliette had long respected each other's work so that was a bonus right off the bat," he recalls.

"When I got them together to meet for the first time, you just saw it. They had "it." They liked each other, they were very similar and made each other laugh a lot so this time, really, my job was already half done before we shot a frame!"

That chemistry between the two is palpable on screen and when we see them laugh and interact (especially in a riotous post-lovemaking

It's that organic quality which gives the film its edge, a natural hook to a film that may have, under a different director and with a different cast, easily fallen into trite cliché.

"Everything just worked," notes Schepisi.

"Even when Juliette's character paints, that's actually her doing it.

"That's her work on display. She fully understood the character and added a dimension to the role that no other actor could. It was amazing. Making the film was a journey and it was one I really, truly enjoyed."

Tammy (Melissa McCarthy) is having a bad day. She's totalled her clunker car, gotten fired from her thankless job at a greasy burger joint and, instead of finding comfort at home, finds her husband getting comfortable with the neighbour in her own house. It's time to take her boom box and book it. The bad news is she's broke and without wheels. The worse news is her grandma, Pearl (Susan Sarandon), is her only option — with a car and cash.

3 songs for the weekend

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS

A terrible mixtape worth the listen, a history lesson in the form of rap, and some weird and wacky electronic music

What you are about to hear is 25 minutes of pure, unadulterated crud. Enjoy...

Various Demos/ Various Artists

Blogger Robert Popper posted a collection featuring the worst demos ever sent to an unnamed U.K. record label. None of the artists(?) are identified (a good thing, trust me) but they all believed they had a shot at stardom. Listen if you dare.

WWI Uncut/ BBC

God bless the BBC for making sure today's younger generations understand the origins of the First World War. Witness this rap battle explaining how the assassination of a minor royal triggered the one of the worst conflicts in history.

Gecko (Overdrive)/ Oliver Heldons X Becky Hill

I can take or leave the song, if I'm honest — but the video is ultra-weird.

See that symbol? It means you can scan this image with your Metro News app to listen to Alan's recommended songs this week.

● ● ● ● ●

A sombre, but beautiful First World War story about the ingenuity and friendship of reluctant soldiers trying to endure the realities around them, this puzzle adventure finds its charm in an eager service dog and the way soldiers of different nationalities must work together. Archival letters and photos, used as collectibles, document the Great War's human cost, a reminder that no one wins this kind of conflict. From rhythm-based tasks for medics to harrowing car chases, this is an ever-inventive adventure with expressive visuals and poignant music. KRIS ABEL

Rich Kids of Instagram.

Infamous Tumblr inspires novel based on the young and excessive

Metro in New York City

Love 'em or hate 'em, you know who they are. Rich Kids of Instagram is a Tumblr that popped up two years ago filled with photos of teens unapologetically flaunting their extreme wealth. Photos of $40,000 shopping sprees, out-of-control yacht parties and champagne bubble baths are just a sampling of what you'll find. Now, in the first Instagram-to-book deal, a novel based on these photos will be coming out next week.

The creator of the Tumblr is anonymous, and he enlisted writer Maya Sloan — who ghostwrote Kendall and Kylie Jenner's new YA novel — to write the book, which centres around a Danish royal and his five friends.

"The 10 most frequent contributors to the site served as a basic resource of information in the beginning," Sloan says. "The book is completely fiction, but I researched who these teens were, who was hanging out with who, and what they were into."

Amazingly, Sloan was able to befriend a real European heir for research, as long as he remained anonymous. She says her husband, who is Danish, also helped provide a lot of insight into the main character.

Sloan says the teens who submit their photos to the site on Instagram and Tumblr have a love/hate relationship with it, but ultimately are obsessed with it and want to be on it.

"The creator gets tons of emails a day from people who want to be featured," she says. "When he doesn't post their photos, they start sending him angry emails. There was one kid who emailed saying he hated the site and never wanted to be on it again and then tried to get back on the site not too long after. The creator told him he wasn't going to put

When writing the book, Sloan's challenge was to humanize these types of teens, so they would be more than just a clique people laugh at.

"As I got to know people with extreme wealth, I did start to feel for them," she says. "There's a classic money-can't-buy-love thing going on. A lot of these kids are really lonely, feel unloved and are looking for a way to feel validated."

90210 who? Alums reunite 20 years on

Blast from the past.

If you're pining for a '90s revival, Tori and Jennie are back with a new sitcom called Mystery Girls

Tori Spelling can crack Jennie Garth up.

When thinking of an upcoming scene from their new ABC Family sitcom, Mystery Girls, now airing Wednesdays at 8:30 p.m. ET, Garth giggles at the memory of Spelling going for it, making a funny face and using a strange voice.

That's just one reason the two like to work together.

"I feel safe doing some, like, goofy, crazy face and voice because it's my friend. I know she's gonna be there to support my efforts," explained Spelling in a recent interview.

"She knows I love it," added Garth, who readily admits she's the first to break character in a scene.

Unless you skipped the 1990s, you know they were co-stars on one of the most popular TV shows of that era, Beverly Hills 90210, about teens living in the exclusive Southern California zip code.

It went off the air after 10 seasons in 2000 but Spelling and Garth have remained friends. They even briefly reprised their roles for the CW's 90210 reboot. Spelling guest-starred on a couple of episodes. Garth appeared on the first two seasons.

They never expected to work together full-time again but Spelling came up with the premise and it all fell into place.

On Mystery Girls, Garth and Spelling play former co-stars of a hit '90s detective TV show of the same name. They've gone their separate ways, until a crime occurs, and the witness will only talk to them. After this, they end up opening a detective agency.

Both actresses also serve as executive producers. They have their hand in the show's look, wardrobe and "every little thing," said Spelling. "Our personalities are micro-managers. We can't delegate that much, but we're learning," she said.

The two say they rarely disagree on decisions but Garth will defer to Spelling sometimes "because it was her idea."

They chose to do a sitcom because, "it's more fun than doing a drama," said Garth. "The schedule, the hours. We both have a lot of kids."

For Spelling, having a sitcom was a career goal.

"I did the best I could on 90210. Like, I tried to make Donna funny. I was in a drama. Everyone else was

Doing comedy

"It's more fun than doing a drama. The schedule, the hours. We both have a lot of kids."

Jennie Garth, on why they chose to do a sitcom instead of a drama great at drama, but I was like, 'I think I'm better at comedy, so how can I interject comedy here and there?' and so Donna was kind of goofy and I did things here and there but I was always like, 'This is harder for me. I wish I could do comedy.'"

The gig also comes at a good time for Spelling's personal life. Her recent marriage struggles with actor Dean McDermott have been documented both in the press and on the Lifetime docu-series, True Tori. On that, cameras followed Spelling in the aftermath of learning her husband had an affair and he subsequently went to rehab.

With all the rumours swirling around her personal life, she felt it was best to document what was happening on camera: "It was the best vehicle to tell my truth." Still, putting her personal problems on display can seem strange to some. To that, Spelling says, "It was something I needed to do, so don't feel bad."

Gosling and McAdams weren't always so cute

To mark the 10th anniversary of The Notebook, surely it's appropriate to reminisce about the subsequent off-screen romance between co-stars Ryan Gosling and Rachel McAdams.

Or, if you're Notebook director Nick Cassavetes, maybe it's time to tell the world just how much the co-stars disliked each other during filming.

In an interview with VH1, Cassavetes reveals that at one point, their bickering interrupted filming. "Maybe I'm not supposed to tell this, but they were really not getting along one day on set. And Ryan came to me, and there's 150 people standing in this big scene, and he says, 'Nick come here.' And he's doing a scene with Rachel and he says, 'Would you take her out of here and bring in another actress to read off camera with me?' I said, 'What?' He says, 'I can't. I can't do it with her. I'm just not getting anything from this.'"

How did Cassavetes handle it? Apparently, he arranged for the stars to, er, talk it out. METRO

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Adam Levine takes on his first movie role pro bono

MELINDA TAUB

Metro in New York City

Adam Levine is an attractive person. In fact, being attractive may be the thing he's best at, including being the rock star frontman for Maroon 5. So he should be totally fine monetizing that attractiveness on the silver screen, right?

Not so fast. Levine says he wants to take things slow as he learns his cinematic craft — that's why he took on his role in Begin Again, opposite Keira Knightley, as more or less an unpaid intern.

"I did this movie for no money. I'm very lucky that I'm in that position," he told USA Today. "I want to have good experiences. I don't want to do a bunch of (expletive) that I hate. I want to treat (acting) completely differently because I have the very fortunate luxury of not having to think of this in terms of money."

Between Maroon 5 and The Voice, Levine will probably never have to think of anything in terms of money again, up to and including trips to space, but he is a man of simpler pleasures: His favourite thing about being a rock star is apparently restaurants. Adam Levine loves restaurants. "I can get a reservation at any restaurant in town at any town," he says in awe. "And that's the greatest thing about being me. Because I love to eat at many different restaurants."

So putting this all together, I'm pretty sure Adam Levine will star in my web series if I take him to some restaurants. I've gotta go make some calls.

Liquid Assets

For the love of salmon

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

My comments last week that I was determined to master the art of barbecuing salmon prompted some of you to send me everything from your own step-by-step instructions to links to YouTube vids.

I took your advice and, while I'm still no Iron Chef, things turned out just fine. Well, eatable at least.

There's a lot to love about salmon. Not only does it taste fantastic, its adaptability with wine continues to chip away at that old wives' tale that claims only whites go with fish. While your favourite glass of lightly-oaked chardonnay or off-dry riesling would make a good match, my palate prefers red.

With its typically round, plump berry flavours, pinot noir is the grape that's the yin to salmon's yang. Originally from France's Burgundy region, it's now grown worldwide with fantastic versions coming out of South America.

Cono Sur's 2013 Bicicleta Pinot Noir ($10.95 - $12.99) from Chile is one for the budget conscious. Soft and juicy with good varietal personality, it goes swimmingly with meatier fish.

Memphis-Style Baby Back Ribs. Our neighbours to the south are celebrating their independence, and you can join in vicariously with this barbecue staple

1. Prepare a grill for medium-low (about 325 F) indirect cooking. In a charcoal grill, this means banking the hot coals to one side of the grill and cooking the ribs on the cooler side. In a gas grill, this means heating the grill with all burners on, but turning off the burners on one side just before putting the food on that side.

2. Remove silver skin from the backs of the ribs, if desired.

3. Place the soaked wood chips directly on the hot charcoals, or in smoking box if using a gas grill (place the box in the grill according to manufacturer directions). Cover the grill.

4. Rub the cut lemons all over the fronts and backs of the ribs, squeezing to release as much juice as possible. Set aside for 5 minutes, then sprinkle the ribs liberally with the barbecue rub. Let sit for 15 minutes.

5. Place the ribs, bone side down, in the centre of the cooking grate over the cooler side of the grill. Cover the grill and cook 1 1/2 to 2 hours, or until the meat is tender and has pulled back from the ends of the bones. Do not open the grill cover for at least the first 30 minutes. After that, if the ribs start to burn at the edges, stack them on top of one another in the very centre of the grill and lower your heat slightly.

6. Twenty minutes before serving, un-stack the ribs if necessary, then brush with barbecue sauce. Remove the ribs from the grill and let rest 10 minutes before cutting into individual or 2- to 3-rib portions.

7. If desired, additional barbecue sauce can be warmed and served alongside the ribs.

Classic Barbecue Rub

1. In bowl, combine all ingredients. Mix well. For a smoother rub, process the ingredients in a spice grinder until well combined and finely ground. The rub can be stored in an airtight container for up to 6 months.

Ingredients

- 6 lbs baby back ribs
- 3 cups barbecue wood chips, soaked in water for 1 hour
- 2 lemons, halved
- 1/4 cup barbecue rub (see recipe below)
- 16-oz bottle barbecue sauce
- 3 tbs granulated sugar
- 2 tbsp smoked paprika
- 2 tbsp kosher salt
- 2 tbsp packed dark brown sugar
- 2 tsp ground cumin
- 1 tbsp ground black pepper
- 1 tbsp onion powder
- 1 tbsp garlic powder
- 2 tsp chili powder
- 1/2 tsp cayenne pepper

By Two Wheels

The city's best bike festival has been going strong for the last week and until July 6, you can take advantage of some really fun events happening. Learn how to tune up your bike at a maintenance session, take part in the daily two-wheel scavenger hunts, or join one of the bike gangs for a cruise around town. For anyone who wants to get more serious about biking, find some new routes, or meet new people, this is something to consider taking part in over the weekend. cyclepaloosa.ca

Stampede Parade

The annual Stampede Parade takes place on July 4 to kick off the Greatest Outdoor Show on Earth, and if you are a true Calgarian you should really plan to be there. Everything kicks off at 8:55 a.m., but plan to arrive a little early to secure a decent spot so you can see the floats, performers, riders and VIPs that will be making their way through the procession. This year's Parade Marshall is William Shatner and Sochi heroes Gilmore Junio and Denny Morrison will also be participating. To view the map of the parade route and to see who else will be parading: cs.calgarystampede.com

It Takes Balls

Here's an unusual event happening on the first day of Stampede: Bottlescrew Bill's is hosting a fundraiser for prostate cancer, but this isn't going to be just any old fundraiser. Each pint is $100 but made specially for you by the creative minds at Village Brewery. The Prairie Oyster Ale is made with actual Prairie oysters that have been cooked up and added to the beer ahead of time to add that special flavour. While you might think twice about sipping on this ale, it's all going towards a really fantastic cause. If you're feeling brave or just plain curious, you can join the party at 5 p.m. facebook.com/nutraiser

Ardbeg TracTOUR

If you like a good spirit or cocktail, Scotch is the ultimate option. A nice glass of Scotch on the rocks or a smoky cocktail is totally sublime once you acquire a taste for it. Lucky for all you Scotch lovers, the Ardbeg TracTOUR will be in Calgary on July 12th at the National on 10th Ave SW. From 3 to 7 p.m. you can sample this famously peaty Scotch in a few crafty cocktails and check out the Ardbeg tractor. ardbeg.com. RSVP to: katy@bondpr.ca

The Red Bull DJ Competition is Back

DJs from across the country will be battling it out this month to see who's going to be representing Canada in Azerbaijan for the Red Bull Thre3 Style Finals. On July 20th, things are going to be heating up in Calgary when a series of talented Western DJs battle it out at the Commonwealth to see who will advance to the national round of this competition. It'll be like seeing eight DJ shows in one with appearances from Smalltown DJs, Hedspin and Four Color Zack. This is worth being late for work on Monday. ## Time to Get Out Your Festival Tarp

The Folk Fest has another great lineup for 2014, and from July 24 to 27, Prince's Island Park is going to be the best spot to hang out. Great Lake Swimmers and Chad VanGalen are just a few of the great acts that will be gracing the stage this year. You'll want to make the afternoon sessions that showcase different artists who come together for one-time collaborations. If you're an aspiring musician you can also take in the Folk Fest Boot Camps that give you the chance to learn chords, strings and songwriting with this year's performers. # Bouchard makes Wimbledon final

Beats Halep to advance. Third time's the charm as Canadian phenom reaches first Grand Slam title match

Canada's Eugenie Bouchard stumbled in her first two Grand Slam semifinal appearances this year.

The third time proved to be the charm Thursday at the All England Club.

Bouchard defeated Romania's Simona Halep 7-6 (5), 6-2 to become the first Canadian to advance to the women's singles final at Wimbledon. It was the latest achievement in what has already been a historic run for Bouchard at the sport's most prestigious event.

"After doing well in the past few (Grand) Slams, I've been believing since the beginning of the tournament that I can do really well," she said. "I'm just trying to take it one match at a time. It's really important not to get ahead of ourselves."

"I totally feel like I belong, and I'm just so excited for the next match."

The 20-year-old from Westmount, Que., has yet to lose a set in her six matches so far at Wimbledon. No Canadian had ever reached the women's singles quarter-finals here in the Open era — never mind the final — before Bouchard.

There could be a Canadian in the men's singles final as well. Milos Raonic of Thornhill, Ont., will take on Switzerland's Roger Federer on Friday with

The 13th-seeded Bouchard will next face sixth-seeded Petra Kvitová on Saturday.

"To get to my first Grand Slam final, it's very exciting. It's what I've worked so long for, you know," Bouchard said. "So I'm just proud of myself for today's effort."

Kvitová, the 2011 Wimbledon champion, beat fellow Czech left-hander Lucie Šafářová 7-6 (6), 6-1 in the other semifinal.

Bombers spoil Redblacks' debut

Running back Nic Grigsby's three touchdowns gave the Winnipeg Blue Bombers a come-from-behind 36-28 win over the Ottawa Redblacks Thursday, spoiling the expansion team's CFL debut.

Demond Washington's 96-yard kick return for a third-quarter touchdown was also huge for the Bombers, who trailed for most of the game.

With three first-quarter touchdowns, the Redblacks jumped into an early lead.

Grigsby's final touchdown gave the Bombers their first lead with 2:33 remaining in the game.

Hughes to GSP: Stay out of UFC

Former UFC welterweight champion Matt Hughes says Georges St-Pierre should retire for good.

Hughes, who lost the UFC title to St-Pierre in November 2006, says now may be the time for St-Pierre to finish.

"If I was GSP, I'd probably hang them up," said Hughes, now VP of athlete development and government relations for the UFC. "Here I am: A guy that lost my (last) two fights and I'd love to get back in there (to finish on a win)... So if I had to give advice, I'd say, 'You want to get out? Get out.'"

St-Pierre has been on hiatus since vacating his 170-pound title following last November.

Argentina to face Belgium blitz

World Cup. Red Devils coach describes quarter-final match as team versus individual talent

So far none of Argentina's opponents has been able to stop Lionel Messi. Perhaps Belgium has what it takes.

For the first time in Brazil, Argentina faces an opponent with attacking potential that rivals its own.

"We will have to adapt, but what really interests me is to see how they will adapt to us," Belgium coach Marc Wilmots said.

Argentina has struggled on its road to the quarter-finals, relying on single moments of Messi magic to break stalemates against mostly defence-oriented teams.

On Saturday in Brasilia, it's up against a young, sparkling team that's considered a dark horse for the title. Even though it needed extra time to prevail against the United States, Belgium unleashed offensive qualities in that game that could present major problems for Argentina's sometimes shaky defence.

Belgium fired 38 shots, half of them from midfielders Kevin de Bruyne and Eden Hazard, and strikers Divock Origi and Romelo Lukaku. An impressive performance by U.S. goalkeeper Tim Howard kept the score down.

Meanwhile, Argentina's attack hasn't been as fearsome as predicted.

If Messi is in good form, he'll cause problems for Belgium, Wilmots conceded Thursday. "But if you ask me as a coach whether I prefer a good collective or one great player, I prefer the team." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

France vs. Germany

"There is a form of insouciance with the younger players.

They're full of life, that's what you expect from a younger player. But it's also a question of quality."

France coach Didier Deschamps, explaining how his young club will deal with the pressure of playing powerhouse Germany in their World Cup quarter-final on Friday in Rio de Janeiro. Go to metronews.ca for more World Cup coverage.

Netherlands vs. Costa Rica

Costa Rica will be attempting to shut down the Dutch striking partnership of Arjen Robben and Robin van Persie, who are looking to get back on the scoring sheet after combining for six goals in their team's first two matches but failing to find the net since. The Netherlands are the top-scoring nation in Brazil with 12 goals through four games heading into Saturday's quarter-final in Salvador.

James has golden glow

World Cup scoring leader James Rodriguez controls the ball from the ground on Thursday in Fortaleza, Brazil. Rodriguez, whose five goals put him one ahead of Argentina's Lionel Messi, Brazil's Neymar and Germany's Thomas Mueller, will try to continue his magical tournament when Colombia takes on Brazil on Friday at Castelao Stadium.

Battle lines drawn down the middle

Paul Stastny shifted from the Central Division champion Colorado Avalanche to the Central Division runners up in St. Louis when he signed a four-year, $28 million US deal with the Blues on Tuesday. DOUG PENSINGER/GETTY IMAGES

NHL free agency. Centres being hoarded in chase for Western Conference supremacy

St. Louis Blues general manager Doug Armstrong targeted Paul Stastny in free agency. But before he even had the chance to sign him, the Dallas Stars traded for Jason Spezza.

"I've got to say I was a little bit nervous this morning when Dallas made their acquisition what our Plan B would be," Armstrong said.

Such is life in the Western Conference, where contending teams are playing an escalating game of "Can you top this?" specifically down the middle of the ice. Having a strong one-two punch of centres is necessary given the Los Angeles Kings' duo of Anze Kopitar and Jeff Carter and now the Anaheim Ducks' combination of Ryan Getzlaf and Ryan Kesler.

"If you want to be one of the elite teams, you have to have it," Stars GM Jim Nill said. "You look at the other teams that are winning on our side now, you need to have two elite centremen."

Nill came from the Detroit Red Wings, who won Stanley

Cups thanks in part to having Steve Yzerman and Sergei Fedorov, and later Henrik Zetterberg and Pavel Datsyuk. In Dallas now, he has Tyler Seguin and Spezza.

The Stars need them to compete in an ultra-competitive Central Division, let alone the Western Conference. The NHL's new divisional playoff format makes that a necessity.

While Anaheim has to worry about getting through Cup-champion Los Angeles, Dallas has to contend with Jonathan Toews and now Brad Richards with Chicago, Alex Steen and Stastny with St. Louis and Matt Duchene and Nathan MacKinnon with the Colorado Avalanche.

Armstrong said Tuesday that the Blues' first goal had to be dethroning the Avalanche, who finished first when St. Louis scuffled at the end of the season. Enter Stastny, signed to a $28-million US, four-year deal not long into free agency.

"They're the champs and they're the first team we have to take a look at catching," Armstrong said on a conference call. "If we're fortunate enough to do that and get into the playoffs, we want to have the guys that can compete at that time of year."

Dirty Dirk to be a Dallas lifer: Source

Dirk Nowitzki and the Dallas Mavericks have agreed on what could be the final contract for the big German.

A person with knowledge of the deal told The Associated Press on Thursday that Nowitzki would get a three-year contract worth roughly $30 million. The person spoke on condition of anonymity because the deal has not been announced.

New contracts can't be signed until next Thursday.

The 36-year-old Nowitzki is taking a big pay cut with a contract similar in value and structure to the one Tim Duncan signed with San Antonio two years ago.

Duncan is exercising a player option to return for the final season of his deal.

Nowitzki just completed a four-year deal worth $80 million, and he left money on the table in that deal hoping the Mavericks could get some pieces around him.

The NBA's agents of change

Teams are holding their cards very close in most cases, and the overwhelming majority of NBA free agents don't seem to be anywhere close to finding a team for next season. Then again, no one officially signs until July 10. Here's a primer on where things stand:

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Photos by Getty Images

Tour de Melo

Whatever happens, the Carmelo Anthony watch is the story of free agency so far. There have been some slipups along the way, most notably what the Rockets were thinking by plastering images of Anthony wearing Jeremy Lin's number (Lin wasn't impressed). Anthony-to-the-Lakers might be a long shot, but it would seem his wife, La La, has a name made for L.A.

Staying put in T.O.

The top free-agent point guard isn't free anymore. Kyle Lowry agreed to a four-year, $48-million deal late Wednesday night, meaning he will be staying in Toronto and continuing to lead a young Raptors team that was a break or two away from getting to the second round of the playoffs this past season.

Who's left?

Pau Gasol is getting interest from a number of teams, including Oklahoma City. Lance Stephenson is negotiating with Indiana, where he'll probably stay. Greg Monroe and Chandler Parsons are expected to get nice raises, regardless of where they are, and Luol Deng would fit with a number of teams who have some money to spend.

Big 3 update

The first two days of free agency came and went without really a peep from the Heat or any of their players. Pat Riley has remained quiet, like always. Clearly, teams aren't waiting around for the Heat to make moves, but there's still a sense that when the Miami dominoes start moving, things league-wide will start happening in a hurry.

Names to watch

Jason Kidd left Brooklyn in infamous fashion but many eyes are on player movement, and with good reason. It might seem odd in some circles that names like Paul Pierce, Josh McRoberts, Spencer Hawes, Shawn Marion, Jordan Hill and NBA Finals hero Boris Diaw aren't getting more attention. Look for that to change, quickly.

Blue Jays see red against Gray, at start of 10-game road trip

MLB. Toronto musters just one run off of Oakland pitcher while Dickey loses his fourth straight start

Sonny Gray allowed four hits over seven innings to bounce back from his worst start of the season and the Oakland Athletics beat the Toronto Blue Jays 4-1 on Thursday night.

The Blue Jays scored their only run with the help of a clever replay challenge by manager John Gibbons, who wanted to have his own player ruled out in order to get a run.

Stephen Vogt scored the winning run on a passed ball in the second inning and the A's made it hold up behind Gray and two relievers.

April 21 - May 21

You like to take initiative but though you will have to yield to those who do not share your sense of adventure. It may be frustrating but you can't change it so don't let it upset you.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

There will be times today when you could scream at people who refuse to see sense but keep quiet. Your way of doing things may indeed be best but no amount of threats will change their minds.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Don't worry if you upset someone today because you need to let others know you won't be pushed around. It may mean the end of a friendship but that's a small price to pay for securing your freedom.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Yes, of course, you have a right to say what you think but don't forget that others have the right to hit back if they so choose. If you clash with someone whose ideas are at odds with your own there could be fireworks today.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

What happens over the next 24 hours will bring you down to earth with a bump but maybe that's good. Your head has been up there in the clouds a bit too long. Come back to reality.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You have allowed certain people to get away with things they did not deserve to get away with. Now you must balance things out and see to it that they pay for their mistakes.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

If there are any loose ends in your affairs, you must deal with them over the next 24 hours. If you leave them flapping in the breeze they will trip you up sooner or later — likely sooner.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

This may be a difficult day for you but it can also be a day when you learn something to your advantage. If you are torn between the future and the past, choose the future.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

There is no point trying to force the pace because the Sun opposing Pluto in your sign won't let you — and will remind you where the real power lies. Also, focus on finishing what has been started.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

The quality you most need today is patience. Come the weekend you will be able to start doing things again but over the next 24 hours control your urge to push ahead.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

For some reason you seem to be afraid of your own shadow — even though most things in your life are going well. Don't let fear hold you back from doing something creative today. Once you start your confidence will return. SALLY BROMPTON

GOD HAS CREATED ENOUGH ROOM FOR US

Failure to get that job is not the end of the road. You can only say it is finished when you stop trying. Rehoboth could have been a mirage to Isaac if he had given up. God will make room for you as he did for Isaac when. "He moved on from there and dug another well, and no one quarrelled over it." He named it Rehoboth, saying "Now the Lord has given us room and we will flourish in the land." (Genesis 26:22 NIV). For prayers and counselling speak with the pastor at 403.992.8656
